MSC PROGRAMME FOR GRADUATES IN OSTEOPATHY

Emerge to a professional within the health system

AIMO Accademia Italiana di Medicina Osteopatica teaches the programme to professionals. It consists of six units, each lasting 24 days.

UCO University College of Osteopathy, London, will give the title.

Programme

Unit 1: Clinical Reasoning

Investigate and gather clinical information useful for the design and management of the clinical case, and propose a plan for the intervention and management of the patient with or without the involvement of other health professionals, using all the components of evidence-informed practice.

Unit 2: Research

Define a relevant and ethically valid research question and an appropriate experimental methodology.

Unit 3: Integrated Osteopathic Approach

Advanced competence in osteopathic evaluation and treatment in the health field in relation to complex clinical scenarios.

Unit 4: Life Style

Consequently, the impact of a healthy lifestyle, including nutrition, ergonomics and movement, on common clinical conditions will be explored.

Unit 5: Paediatrics

Specialist paediatric osteopaths require relevant specialist knowledge and skills to recognise variations within normal child development, differences in anatomy, physiology and pathology and a technical repertoire to enable effective communication, evaluation and treatment.

Unit 6: Pain Management

Therapeutic approach beyond the osteopathic manipulative treatment to other elements which might be included to integrate and complete your patient's management plan.
